Todd Bryan is an FEI level dressage trainer dedicated to developing rider/horse confidence. He has more than 40 years of experience working with students and horses of all levels. Some of Todd's proudest moments occur when his students earn their USDF bronze, silver, and gold medals!

"I have had several amateurs tell me that they can't imagine themselves ever competing at horse shows. Once the horse and rider gain more confidence and harmony together, showing is less daunting and more fun. My favorite moments are when these clients become my most avid competitors."

Since he began his career in 1987, Todd has garnered multiple national and international accolades. Some of these awards include: USDF Bronze, Silver, and Gold medals, multiple BLM and USDF Regional Champion and Reserve Champion honors, FEI World Ranked at Grand Prix 1996, Carl-Heinrich Asmis Scholarship award winner, NAYRC Individual Gold Medalist. Todd has been featured in Dressage Today, Spur, Horseplay, and Horse Talk magazine.

Todd's Training Objectives: To develop horses and riders to their peak performance levels through quiet, and methodical schooling. To ensure that both horse and rider understand the objectives of each movement and skill. To preserve the health and spirit of the equine athlete, thereby creating a harmonious partnership. All riders and levels welcome.
